FICTIONAL EMPLOYMENT CONTRACT

TEST DOCUMENT ONLY — NOT A REAL CONTRACT OR LEGAL ADVICE. This fictional example is for software testing. It has not been checked for compliance with Norwegian law and must not be used as a real employment agreement.

This sample is written in English and includes simple example clauses so a document-processing system can test questions about salary, working hours, leave, notice, and privacy.

1. Parties

Employer: Fjord Example Technology AS (fictional company).
Business address: 10 Example Street, Oslo, Norway (fictional address).
Employee: Alex Example (fictional person).
Position: Junior Software Developer.

2. Start Date and Employment Type

The proposed start date is 1 November 2026. This sample describes a full-time, ongoing position. These details are illustrative only and have not been assessed against applicable legal requirements.

3. Salary and Payment

The example gross salary is NOK 35,000 per month before tax and other lawful deductions. Salary is intended to be paid monthly, on the 25th day of each month, to the employee's nominated bank account. Any overtime payment, supplements, deductions, or other compensation would need to be handled according to the actual agreement and applicable rules.

4. Working Hours

The example normal working schedule is 37.5 hours per week, Monday to Friday. The usual daily schedule is 09:00 to 17:00, including a one-hour unpaid lunch break. This clause is included for testing and is not a statement that the schedule satisfies all legal requirements.

5. Work Location

The normal work location is the employer's fictional office in Oslo. Remote work may be agreed in writing between the employer and employee.

6. Holiday and Leave

The employee's holiday and leave arrangements will be handled in accordance with the applicable agreement and relevant Norwegian rules. This sample does not specify a complete holiday entitlement or holiday-pay calculation.

7. Sickness Absence

The employee should notify the employer as soon as reasonably possible when unable to work due to illness. Documentation and payment during sickness absence are subject to applicable requirements and procedures.

8. Confidentiality and Personal Data

The employee must handle confidential business information responsibly. The employer should explain what personal data it processes, why it processes that data, how long it is retained, and how the employee can exercise applicable data-protection rights. This clause is intentionally general and requires review before any real use.

9. Overtime

Overtime should be agreed or assigned only when permitted by applicable rules. The employer and employee must confirm the applicable overtime arrangements and compensation before relying on this clause.

10. Notice and Termination

The example text says that either party should provide one month's written notice. The applicable notice period, procedure, and any mandatory requirements must be checked against the actual facts and current Norwegian law. This example clause may be incomplete or unsuitable.

11. Signatures

Employer representative: _____

Employee: _____

Date: _____

For project testing: Ask “What is the monthly salary?”, “How many hours per week does the employee work?”, “What does the contract say about overtime?”, and “What information does the contract provide about personal data?” The system should retrieve relevant clauses and avoid unsupported legal claims.